Contact Person (name, function, e-mail, tel):

Planned dates of start and end of the placement period:

Knowledge, skills and competence to be acquired: This course should provide the participant with such type-specific knowledge as to confer the skills necessary for completing, in a safe and secure manner, a flight with the airplane-type in question. The participant should gain type-specific knowledge required for the later practical part of the education. At the end of this course the participant should show the competency to act in a correct manner with regards to flight-safety, high demands on precision and professionalism.

Detailed programme of the training period: As each training programme is based on the included courses detailed programmes are crafted by the LUSA training programme coordinator (LIA koordinator) in concordance with the receiving organisation and the participant. This programme will then be attached to the learning agreement as an appendix.

Tasks of the trainee: During the first segment of the course the participant is tasked with accumulating the theoretical knowledge required for completing a flight according to the operative procedures of their host-airline. In the second segment the participant undergoes type-specific training in a flight-simulator under normal and non-normal conditions for the purpose of gaining the required skills and competency needed in their future flight-service.

Monitoring and Mentoring of the participant: Each participating student is assigned a receiving organisation mentor who monitors and guides the participant. The mentor is also responsible for documenting and reporting to LUSA that the training programme meets the stated knowledge, skills and competency goals.

Evaluation and Validation of the training placement: LUSA will receive certification from the receiving organisation as to validate that the participant has had ample and valid opportunities to meet the training programme goals. LUSA will use this certification as a basis for grading and thus evaluating and validating that the participant has meet the goals of the learning agreement.
